Sourcing towels overseas usually goes wrong in the same four places.

01

"The sample was right. The bulk order wasn't."

Weight, colour or size drift between sample and production, and there is no written reference to hold anyone to.

HOW WE HANDLE IT

Your approved sample and a written specification with tolerances become the production reference.

02

"Answers are slow, vague, or change."

A 9–13 hour time difference, a different contact each order, and decisions buried in message threads.

HOW WE HANDLE IT

One named contact, a U.S. office in Seattle and operations in Karachi. Replies within one business day.

03

"The specification has gaps."

GSM with no tolerance, colour with no reference, packaging decided last. Gaps become disputes.

HOW WE HANDLE IT

We write every field that affects the towel into one document you own, before the sample is made.

04

"Private label is more than a logo."

Labels, packaging, artwork and U.S. labelling details have to be coordinated across several suppliers.

HOW WE HANDLE IT

Branding, labels and packaging are specified with the towel and confirmed on the sample.

Make every requirement explicit, and keep every step visible.

01

Clear specifications

Fibre, weight, size, construction, colour, branding and packaging written down with tolerances. You own the document.

02

Supplier coordination

We match your brief to independent Pakistani manufacturers that make that product, and tell you which one makes your order.

03

Customisation

Colour to your reference, borders, logos, labels, set composition and retail packaging — confirmed on the sample.

04

Transparent communication

A named contact, written updates at each stage, and the check results before goods ship.

Your brand, built into the specification.

Logo

Embroidered, woven border or jacquard, depending on the product and volume.

Colour

Dyed to your Pantone or physical swatch; yarn-dyed stripes for beach and kitchen.

Construction

Border style, pile, size, hem and the composition of a set.

Labels

Brand, care, size and fibre-content labels; swing tags and barcodes to your artwork.

Packaging

Bulk carton, bundled and banded, poly-bagged, retail-ready or gift-boxed.

Product development

Start from a towel you already sell, a competitor's sample, or a written brief.

Logo files, colour references, label wording and packaging artwork are agreed before the sample. Every option is confirmed on the sample, where the manufacturing partner supports it.

QUALITY ASSURANCE

The approved sample is the standard. Production is checked against it.

GSM
Weight per square metre, against target and tolerance

Dimensions
Finished length and width, against tolerance

Colour
Compared to the approved sample under consistent light

Construction
Pile, border and hem match the reference

Stitching
Hems and borders secure, no loose threads

Branding
Logo or label position, size and finish

Packing
Packed, labelled and marked as specified

Quantity
Counts per size and colour match the order

Sample evaluation
You test the sample; changes go into the written specification.

Agreed check plan
What is checked, when and by whom — in writing, before production.

Inspection options
Pre-shipment check against your spec. Third-party inspection or lab tests when you arrange or request them.

Certificates are held by manufacturing partners for specific facilities, not by WeaveSources. Tell us the standard you need and we propose only partners who can evidence it.

Seven steps. Nothing moves to the next without your sign-off.

1

Inquiry

You share the product, use and rough quantity.

2

Requirements

We turn it into a written specification.

3

Quotation

Confirmed with a suitable partner, in writing.

4

Sample approval

You wash it, measure it, approve or adjust.

5

Production

Runs against the approved sample.

6

Quality checks

In-line by the partner; pre-shipment against your spec.

7

Shipment

Packed as specified, with documents, on agreed Incoterms.

STEP 4 IS THE GATE

Production starts only after you approve a physical sample. That sample, with the written specification, is the reference for every check and every reorder.

START WITH LESS RISK

Start with a sample, not a container.

01

Share a brief

No commitment. Rough answers are fine.

You decide whether to continue

02

Receive a written spec & quote

Every field and tolerance, confirmed with the partner.

Nothing is made yet

03

Evaluate a sample

Cost and timing agreed in writing before it is made.

Approve, adjust or walk away

04

Place a trial order

A first order sized to the partner's minimum for your specification, where the partner supports it.

Checked before it ships

05

Reorder to the same spec

Repeat orders cite the same specification and reference sample.

Consistency you can check

Trial-order size depends on the product and the manufacturing partner's minimum for your specification, and is confirmed in your quotation.

Judge us on what you can check.

WHY PAKISTAN · 2023
